President's Message

By Tucker Haltom

WE ARE HOPING

you and your family are making plans to join us in Kohler, Wisconsin at The American Club Resort this July 17-21. The Reunion of Diplomates this year celebrates our 31st annual meeting. We honor our Founding Members and our Past Presidents this year for their extraordinary leadership.

It is my highest honor to serve as President of the College of Diplomates. I thank you for this opportunity. I serve with an exceptional group of people. Your council represents all constituencies of the American Association of Orthodontists. The council members are leaders in their component and constituent societies. The College is fortunate that these energetic, devoted and talented volunteers form our Council. I know they are appreciated and recognized by the membership of the College.

This has been a momentous year for the College. The Directors of the American Board of Orthodontics have formally recognized The College of Diplomates of The American Board of Orthodontics as the 'Educational Arm' of the ABO. The ABO Directors have fully endorsed and fully support the College preparatory courses for the ABO written and clinical certification and recertification examinations. In this regard they have sent a letter of endorsement to all orthodontic programs. Their actions are a strong confirmation for the College. Every year our organizations become more closely related. We walk the same path.

The College board certification preparatory courses in Boston were again this year very popular and nearly completely subscribed. Courses were taught on Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. We cannot adequately thank the College volunteers who taught these courses, giving up their personal time at the meeting. We thank Dr. Dick Ridgley, our Continuing Education Director who unfalteringly updates, communicates, educates, promotes and plans for the future preparatory courses. The prep courses are his design. Dick is a true visionary for the College and we owe him a great deal.

In Kohler, Wisconsin, Dr. Walter Buchsieb will be honored as Honorary Chairman of the meeting. He is a past president of the College and is our parliamentarian. Walter is the finest man you will ever meet. He and his wife Betty have been dedicated supporters of the College for many years.

Dr. R.G. (Wick) Alexander is one of our greatest teachers. He is a powerful innovator for the clinical orthodontist and has been my mentor and inspiration for many years. We will honor Wick's contributions to the specialty of orthodontics by dedicating the 2009 Annual Summer Meeting to him.

Congratulations to Dr. John Grubb for a very successful year as president of the ABO. John has been instrumental in enhancing the dialogue between our organizations.

Dr. Raymond George, has just ended his term as president of the AAO with a most exceptional meeting in Boston. As a special event he arranged a dinner for the College Council, ABO Directors and the AAO Trustees. The College appreciates the thoughtfulness and planning that went into this wonderful evening and we thank Ray for his strong support. The College has never had a better friend.

In the coming year we will find Dr. Robert Bray as president of the AAO, Dr. Peter Greco as president of the ABO and Dr. Phil Markin as president of CDABO. All are members of the Mid-Atlantic Association of Orthodontists (MASO), and all are good friends. We can expect an extraordinary year from these extraordinary men.

This year in Kohler, Wisconsin, the AAO Trustees and the ABO Board will have their individual board meetings. We are very pleased that these great families of the AAO will come together at our annual meeting. Thank you to our AAO liaison Dr. Lee Graber and our ABO Liaison Committee: Drs. Scott Jamieson, Eladio de Leon and Allen Moffitt. They have made themselves easily available to our council and bring their expertise and advice into our council's deliberations.

I would also like to thank Karen Seiler, our executive director, for her dedication to our organization and her tireless efforts on behalf of the College. She and the staff at Burmeister & Associates have supported me this year with patience and kindness.

We are all very excited about our upcoming summer meeting. Donna and I traveled to Kohler recently and everything will be absolutely "Five Star," thanks to our excellent planning committee. I would like to extend a special thanks to Kimberly Haltom, Drs. Scott Arbit, John Carter, Don Drake, Jim Fruge, Darren Haltom, Phil Markin, Jim Morrow and Mike Steffen, who comprise this committee. Thanks also to my wife Donna, Karen Arbit, Phyllis Markin and Gail Morrow for their help in making this an exceptional meeting.

This 31st Annual Reunion promises to be another in the long line of exceptional Scientific Programs. Dr. David Sarver has created an excellent lecture series with the theme "The Art of Orthodontics." We have an outstanding social program designed for families at this absolutely stunning resort.

Stay with us after the meeting for two more days of world-class golf at the Whistling Straits Course and The Irish Course. Join us for "A Taste of Italy" wine tasting dinner, a sculptor class, boys' afternoon out at the Harley Davidson factory or the exciting ropes course. Go kayaking or fishing in Lake Michigan or enjoy the little towns of Kohler and Sheboygan or the world famous Kohler Spa. It will be four days full of fun and learning, a fantastic summer experience!

COUNCIL IN ACTION

By Tucker Haltom

RECENT ACTIVITIES that continue to push the College forward include the following:

- To save printing and postage costs, the College office will continue to periodically send e-mail blasts to members and non-member diplomates to keep them informed of College activities and to encourage non-members to join the College.
- This Diplomate will be mailed to all non-member diplomates and students to inform them of the College and College activities.
- An ad-hoc committee on Annual Meeting sponsorship will propose a change in policy at the July 2009 business meeting.
- A combined Model Measurement, Discrepancy Index & Cast Evaluation and "Mock" Board Case Oral Examination preparatory course was highly successful at the 2008 GORP meeting and the College has been invited back to give the presentation at the upcoming 2009 GORP meeting.

- The College continues to offer and bring the board certification preparatory courses to residents at their school. Courses have been presented at eleven orthodontic programs. We are working to confirm a date with several more schools that have expressed interest.
- Advertisement of the Step Brochure in the Diplomate generated new orders. We will continue to advertise this brochure in future issues of the Diplomate.
- The members of the College Council teach a variety of ABO certification preparatory courses over a four-day time period during the AAO Annual Session.
- The new "Mock" Board Case Oral Exam certification course was added to the course schedule this year at the AAO meeting in Boston. See article "Events at the AAO".

Sponsorship for the College's Annual Meeting

The College Council is revisiting the policy of accepting sponsorship for their annual summer meeting. Standing motions to the members in the past to allow sponsorship have not been approved. A new motion to change the policy will be introduced to the members at the 2009 Annual Summer Meeting in Kohler, Wisconsin. An advantage of sponsorship would be to reduce meeting registration fees. A disadvantage is that the College summer meeting would not be independent of commercial ties.

The board will continue to contribute funds to the Ray Thurow lecture at the College's Annual Summer Meeting. Please provide the Board with suggestions for future projects.

Bylaw changes were presented and adopted to put the Foundation's Bylaws in line with those of the College. Thank you to Dr. Bob Staley and his committee for their work on this project.

Dr. Richard Ridgley is working with the AAO regarding the possibility of using the AAO Bulletin to promote the College's courses. Due to the changes implemented by the American Board of Orthodontics, our mission has not changed, but the manner in which preparatory courses are delivered has changed.

A donation card was included with the College's dues statement sent to all members in September. The total donation amount received to date this year is $8,810. The CDABOF money market value is $221,579.52.

CONTINUING EDUCATION

By Richard Ridgley

THE DEPARTMENT of continuing education has been very busy. The College Council, with financial support from your Foundation, approved ABO examination preparatory courses to be made available to orthodontic departments. Currently we have completed courses at the following departments: Montefiore, St. Barnabas, University of Oklahoma, University of Maryland, University of Tennessee, Baylor College of Dentistry, University of Illinois at Chicago, Boston University Medical Center, University of Alabama, Arizona School of Dentistry, and University of Colorado at Denver. Over 200 residents participated out of the 11 departments. Our courses reach out to the residents and review the use of the measuring gauge in case evaluation, discrepancy index and board case oral examination. Our courses have received great reviews and we are looking forward to presenting these important courses to additional departments.

During the 2009 AAO Annual Session in Boston the College taught 143 people who took a total of 237 courses. Nineteen instructors taught 98 orthodontists the Model Measurement course, 79 orthodontists the Discrepancy Index course and 23 orthodontists the newest course, "Mock" Board Case Oral Exam. All of the College councilors participated in teaching these courses. Many thanks to everyone who participated in making this the most successful teaching session. See page 1 for list of instructors.

Education Arm of the ABO

In March of 2009, the American Board of Orthodontics honored the College with endorsing our preparatory courses and stating that the College is the "Educational Arm of the ABO." I wish to personally thank the Directors of the ABO Board for this honor. The College Council and the ABO Board continue to work together with the common goal of promoting the certification process. The support of the ABO Board and the relationship between the two is the strongest in the history of these two groups.

The orthodontic department courses are very valuable to the College as we have the ability to introduce the residents to the board certification process as well as the College. Over 50% of those who take the department courses report the course will be an influence in joining the College. If you would like to financially assist your orthodontic department and would like to see the preparatory courses in your school, please contact Karen Seiler at the College office at cdabo@charter.net or myself at imoveteeth@earthlink.net to discuss the details in bringing the course to your school.

The success of our efforts must be shared with the instructors, the College staff, ABO and the chairperson of each department. I sincerely appreciate everyone's effort in making these courses a great success.

College Junior Councilor Nominee

Kenneth M. Hrechka of Alexandria, Virginia

Dr. Hrechka received his certificate in Orthodontics from the University of Maryland School of Dentistry. He has been a member of the ABO and CDABO since 1993 and served as a Middle Atlantic Society of Orthodontists Delegate to the AAO House of Delegates from 2001-2007.

ABO REPORT

By Peter M. Greco 2009-2010 President

THE AMERICAN BOARD of Orthodontics (ABO) continues to enjoy a productive and collegial relationship with the College, forged by a mutual understanding of the value of certification.

This is a unique year for our specialty's leadership as the presidents of the College, the AAO and the ABO are all members of the MASO constituency.

At a recent meeting among incoming College President Dr. Philip Markin, AAO President

Dr. Robert Bray and myself, a number of collateral objectives were defined for future implementation.

One of these objectives is to partner with the College to collectively convey the value of the Initial Certification Exam (ICE). There is no question that the future of the specialty rests within our youngest members. Following the conclusion of the ABO's Gateway Offer in 2007, 36% of the AAO membership was 47 years old or younger. Of that younger AAO membership, 74% are now ABO certified. This indicates that the younger generation of orthodontists considers board certification a worthwhile endeavor.

The College's efforts in assisting and motivating the young orthodontist toward board certification strengthen our specialty. We must convey that early certification as well as membership in the College elevates the standard of orthodontic care. College membership encourages not only recertification but also avails a career of continuing education and fraternity. I envision full synergy between incoming College President Philip Markin and the ABO Executive Committee in striving toward communication of these benefits. We are in the process of developing the mechanism for that initiative.

The College's preparatory courses for our examination processes continue to provide not only valuable support to board examinees, but also serve as a critique of our testing processes. The genesis of several of the modifications within our examinations has been generated from questions posed by the College's instructors and participants.

Many of the examiners at the ABO Clinical Examination are members of the College. The volunteer faculty of the College continues to be the Board's greatest advocate in preparing examinees for the written and clinical examinations. The preparatory course participants praise the College's effort unconditionally. We respect and treasure the College as our genuine "educational arm."

The ABO and the College are collaborating to allow College members to voluntarily recertify at the summer CDABO meetings. The College is developing the details of the program and will hopefully offer this option by the summer of 2010. This service will further the partnership between our two organizations.

Extra effort from College members is obvious. For example, the superb Discrepancy Index (DI) and Cast Radiographic Evaluation (CRE) booklets developed by Dr. John Carter are invaluable to anyone interested in the clinical examination. The effort of Dr. John Kanyusik has been monumental in propelling the ABO mission, as John remains a "can-do guy" in any capacity on behalf of the College and the ABO. Dr. Richard "Dick" Ridgley's devotion to the preparatory courses offered across the nation is valued and appreciated. These three gentlemen were awarded the ABO's Special Recognition Award at the AAO's Annual Session in Boston for their enduring devotion to our organizations and to the specialty.

There is no question that synergy between our organizations will not only address our specialty's problems but will also propel us with success into the future. I look forward to serving you and the profession in this collaborative effort and remain available should you have additional suggestions regarding our continued efforts.

AAO REPORT

By Robert Bray 2009-2010 President

AS BOTH THE 2009-10 president of the AAO and the liaison from the AAO Board of Trustees (BOT) to CDABO, I look forward to the coming year of service to our members and patients.

As you may know, I am a member of the Middle Atlantic Society of Orthodontists (MASO). In an interesting turn of events, this year's presidents of CDABO and the ABO, Dr. Philip Markin and Dr. Peter Greco, respectively, are also from MASO. I expect this will bode well for the highest level of cooperation among our organizations. We in fact had a meeting in Boston during the AAO's Annual Session where the three of us shared our thoughts for the year as well as future meetings.

The AAO BOT is immensely appreciative of the College's efforts to increase the number of AAO members who have achieved ABO certification. What a success story! An astounding 52 percent of AAO members have achieved board certification—up from 35% of AAO membership just three short years ago. This elevates our beloved specialty—particularly in the minds of consumers. While consumers may not know what it means for an orthodontist to be board-certified, they know it's a good thing. Your educational program is the best and we thank you for your efforts in making all orthodontics better.

Consumer education continues to be among the critical issues being addressed by the AAO. The Public Awareness Campaign is heading into its fourth year. The campaign establishes trust in the AAO member/orthodontic specialist so that when the time comes for orthodontic treatment, the consumer can make an informed decision about who provides that treatment. The campaign has successfully made hundreds of thousands of consumers aware of our unique educational qualifications through ads aimed at our target audience placed on cable TV, on the Internet, in magazines and on satellite radio. To date, the campaign has driven more than 1.5 million first-time visitors to braces.org. Many visitors use the "Find an Orthodontist" service to locate AAO members near them. Collectively, our names have been given out more than 5 million times since the campaign launched in October 2006. I checked my own numbers on the member Web site and my contact information has been given out 1,390 times since the campaign began. I invite you to check your numbers through AAOmembers.org.

Other critical issues have been the focus of AAO activity for the last few years, and will continue to be at the forefront. They include the recruitment and retention of orthodontic educators; advocacy/governmental affairs; relationships with the ADA and other healthcare organizations; international orthodontic issues; and volunteer leadership development. The AAO is committing a host of resources in all of these important areas.

In addition, the BOT recommended adoption of a seventh critical issue, which was approved by the 2009 House of Delegates: practice management. The recent downturn in the economy impacted many of our members. The AAO responded quickly with Webinars that addressed a variety of practice management aspects. Webinars and other practice management resources will continue to be made available to AAO members. Practice management is always part of the program at Annual Session, and the 2010 meeting in Washington, D.C., themed "Passion for Excellence," will feature it prominently. Many AAO distance learning lectures also explore practice management. Armed with information and best practices, the AAO is dedicated to helping members thrive. Practice management education for members at all stages of the practice life cycle helps us be as astute at business as we are at orthodontic care.

The year ahead will bring us all many opportunities to learn and grow. One of those learning opportunities will be at the CDABO meeting in July—I look forward to seeing you there. And I hope you and your staff will join me for the 110th AAO Annual Session April 30-May 4 in Washington, D.C. where we can share in our "Passion for Excellence."

Let us continue to work toward our common goal of delivering the highest level of orthodontic care by promoting ABO certification to AAO members. May the coming year bring you continued success.
